JEFFERSON PARK FIELDHOUSE REMOVAL BEGINS THIS SUMMER

Much of the Jefferson Park fieldhouse will be removed this summer after the building was largely destroyed by two arson fires in 2021. The first was started in the men's restroom on April 22, 2021. Metro Parks was on track to secure a contractor for repairs from the first fire's damage when a second fire was set in a portable toilet which spread to the women's restroom, severely damaging the building.

A condition assessment conducted by an architectural consultant concluded that a renovation to the existing building would be impractical and cost prohibitive. Based on the structural analysis, Metro Parks will remove the damaged public portion of the building and retain only the portion necessary for park operations.

Demolition is expected to begin in June following an asbestos assessment and receipt of hazmat report. Barring any unknown conditions, demolition of the damaged parts of the building and modifications to the remaining portion is anticipated to take approximately a month to complete.

The sprayground opened May 3 as part of its normal weekends-only seasonal operation and will transition to daily operation on May 25. Staff and contractors are planning everything possible to minimize possible disruptions to sprayground operations. If, for some reason, it becomes necessary to close the sprayground for an extended period of time, expect to see an alert at metroparkstacoma.org/place/jefferson-park.

In 2021, the fieldhouse at hit by an arsonist and partially destroyed.

Moving forward, Metro Parks will focus on planning for park improvements that would likely include public restrooms and other recreation and gathering spaces. The only available funding to respond to the repeated vandalism that destroyed the majority of the building comes from settlement of the insurance claim. Given the age, structural and smoke damage to the building, the only viable option at this time is to move forward with demolition.

Metro Parks will coordinate community conversations with park neighbors to discuss future options for the park as part of the long-range planning for the District's comprehensive capital needs assessment. Metro Parks anticipates initiating that engagement process in early 2025. The community is invited to join in. Whether you are interested in participating in the process or simply want to track the project, sign up at tinyurl.com/yckxenxt to receive email updates from us as Metro Parks begins the process.

The land for Jefferson Park was purchased in pieces beginning in 1922 and continuing through 1960. The Park Board described the state of the land as "covered with a heavy growth of underbrush, ferns, willows, old rotting logs and stumps." It was called an unsanitary "dumping ground for neighborhood garbage and refuse," which contained "several large ponds dangerous for the small children of the neighborhood."

Today Jefferson Park is a reminder of the power of community involvement and dedication. At close to 15 acres, this neighborhood park has room for team sports, a playground and sprayground, tennis and pickleball courts and plenty of space for picnicking.
